POPULAR SHERIFF GETS MARRIED

Tom Logan and Miss Helen Davis United in Marriage Last Wednesday.

CEREMONY SAID AT PRINCETON

Thomas Logan, the popular sheriff of Hopkins county, and Miss Helen Davis, of Fredonia, Caldwell county, were united in marriage Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock, the ceremony being held in the Princeton Hotel, in the presence of a few friends, Rev. Barnett officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Prof. and Mrs. W. B. Davis, formerly of Madisonville and is very attractive, estimable young lady. The bridegroom is too well and favorably known over the county to need any commendation.

After the ceremony the happy couple went to Madisonville in an automobile and for a few weeks will have rooms with Mr. and Mrs. Horace Cox, who is a sister to Mr. Logan. It is their intention to go to housekeeping in a short time.

The Bee joins their many friends in wishing them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

In Railroad Yards of this Place Late Sunday Afternoon.

BRICK FELL ON HIS HEAD WHEN HE FELLED TREE

L. G. Webb was hurt yesterday morning when a brick fell off the Christian Church chimney and struck him on the head, cutting a gash which the doctor had to sew up. He was not seriously hurt. Mr. Webb had just felled the sycamore tree by the Church, in preparation for extension of the new addition. The tree caught a guy wire on the metal flue top and the wire dragged several bricks off the flue, one of which fell on his head.

OLD SOLDIERS HAVE GOOD TIME

County Reunion of Confederate Soldiers Held at Madisonville Fair Grounds Saturday.

FINE DINNER SERVED

A county reunion of the old Confederate soldiers was held at the fair grounds last Saturday in an all-day meeting, and the day was pleasantly spent by the "old boys" renewing acquaintances and talking of the days of long ago. Practically all of the old soldiers of the county were present, and there were also many visitors, who were invited to be on hand to enjoy the day with the old soldiers. Many of the Daughters of the Confederacy were present, and the dinner served on the grounds, prepared by these good ladies, was one of the enjoyable features of the day.

In the afternoon many speeches were made, among the speakers being: Hon's Wm. J. Cox, D. H. Kincheloe, Lee Gibson, Frank D. Rash, Ruby Laffoon and others.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH BEING REMODELED

Several Thousand Dollars to be Spent on Improvements

After several months of preparation the work of remodeling the Christian church in this city has begun, and will be pushed as rapidly as possible, in order that the building may reach completion before winter weather sets in. The church, and more especially the Sunday School, have long felt the need of larger quarters and more modern equipment, and the question of enlargement has been under discussion for some time, as the workers in the church and Sunday School have realized that under existing conditions the church has reached the limit of its usefulness in the community.

The work will consist of enlarging the main auditorium, which will be extended fifteen by thirty feet, in addition to the space now occupied by the tower, which will be removed; excavating and furnishing a basement, which will contain the workroom of the Ladies Aid Society and several class rooms; and brick-vaneering the entire exterior of the building. The work is under the supervision of Mr. Jack Shanks, of Madisonville, and the improvements are expected to reach completion in six weeks or two months.

Worship will be conducted in the Temple Theatre during the improvement of the old building.

A Friend to Man.

There are hermit souls that live withdrawn
In the peace of self-content:
There are souls, like stars, that dwell apart,
In a fellowless firmament:
There are pioneer souls that blaze their paths
Where highways never ran;
But let me live by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in a house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
The men who are good and the men who are bad,
As good and as bad as I.

I would not sit in the scorners' seat,
Or hurl the cynics ban;
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

I see from my house by the side of the road,—
By the side of the highway of life,
The men who press with the ardor of hope,
The men who are faint with strife.
But I turn not away from their smiles nor their tears—
Both parts of an infinite plan;
Let me live in my house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

Let me live in my house by the side of the road,
Where the race of men go by—
They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong,
Wise, foolish—so am I.
Then why should I sit in the scorners' seat,
Or hurl the cynics ban?
Let me live in a house by the side of the road
And be a friend to man.

—SAM WALTER FOSS.

What a Few Noted Men Think of The Saloons

Col. Geo. W. Bain—

"For every dollar paid the school to cultivate the intellect of this country, nine dollars are paid the saloons to blight that intellect."

Amos W. Butler, Secretary of the State Charities and Corrections of Indiana—

"A large majority of the cases of crime in Indiana is traceable to strong drink, and a large part of our idleness, insanity and pauperism results from the same cause."

Terrace V. Powderly, Grand Master Workman of the Knights of Labor—

"The most damning curse to the labors is that which gurgles from the neck of the bottle."

William McKinley—

"The most degrading and ruinous of all human pursuits."
"By legalizing this traffic we agree to share with the liquor sellers the responsibilities and evils of his business. Every man who votes for license becomes of necessity a partner to the liquor traffic and all its consequences."

Cannon Wilberforce—

"The deriving of vast sums for the revenue from the bitter sufferings and grinding pauperism of the people is the terrible offense. If Judas had received one thousand dollars instead of 30 pieces of silver, would that have justified his conduct?"

Queen of Madagascar—

"I cannot consent, as your queen, to take revenue from the sale of liquor, which destroys the souls and bodies of many subjects."

Emperor of China—

"It is true I cannot prevent the introduction of the glowing poison. Gainseeking and corrupt men will, for profit and sensuality, defeat my wishes, but nothing will induce me to derive a revenue from the misery and vice of my people."

Gladstone's reply to the London Brewers—

"Gentlemen: You need not give yourselves any trouble about the revenue. The question of revenue must never stand in the way of needed reform. But give me a sober population, not wasting their earnings in strong drinks, and I shall know where to obtain the revenue."

Judge Butler, of Illinois, at the close of a murder trial—

"The case at bar is the 76th murder case I have tried, either as State's Attorney or as Judge, during the past 19 years. I kept a careful record of each case, and I have to say that in 75 out of the 76, liquor was the exciting cause."

Sam Jones—

"I have seen a man and a dog go into a saloon and in an hour the man would get beastly drunk and stagger out like a hog, while the dog would come out and walk away like a gentleman."

Henry W. Grady—

"The SALOON is the moral enemy of peace and order, the despoiler of men and terror of women, the cloud that shadows the face of children, the demon that has dug more graves and sent more souls unshriven to judgement than all the pestilences that have wasted life since God sent the Plague to Egypt, and all the wars since Joshua stood beyond Jericho."

Clinton N. Howard—

"Without one dollar of revenue from the saloon Maine has the larger percentage of the total population in the public school than any other state of the New-England States, or than New York with its 20 million dollars of revenue from the saloon, and more teachers employed in proportion to her school population than any other State in the Union."

Governor Hoob, of Kansas—

"The devil never invented a bigger lie than that revenue from illegitimate sources is necessary to the financial success of any town or city."
Abraham Lincoln—

"If it is a crime to make a counterfeit dollar it is ten thousand times a worse crime to make a counterfeit man."

WILL SPEND $12,000.00

On Earlington Passenger Station—Concrete Platform and Train Shed

OTHER IMPROVEMENTS COMING

It is learned from a man high in authority that the L. & N. is prepared to spend $12,000 on the passenger station, concrete platform and a train shed at this place in the near future. This work will be done in addition to improvements and additional building being done and yet to be done at the round house. There will also be some changes made and possible additional track laid in the Earlington yard to accommodate and facilitate future business. The installation of the new turn table which is the largest on the system, the extensive improvements being made at the round house and the expenditure of $12,000 as stated above should forever eliminate any pessimistic ideas in regard to Earlington's not being the permanent home of the round house the train master and the train dispatchers.

SOME SWELL HATS

Earlington's Three Millinery Stores are Loaded With Goods for the Ladies this Season.

The swellest line of ladies' headgear ever seen in this city was exhibited here last week at Cansler & Brown Bros., The Barnes Store and Mrs. M. A. Deshon's Millinery Store. Each of these firms have on display an elegant line of all the late style hats. They are not only the best line ever seen in this market but are far superior to anything shown in the surrounding towns and equal to those on display in the city millinery stores. Souvenirs of flowers were given and delightful music was rendered by a string band. Miss King of the Barnes store displayed her hats from the heads of beautiful living models and quite a number of favorable comments have been made on this unique method of showing to the best advantage the large and stylish line of hats in this store.

The millinery department of Cansler & Brown Bros. presided over by Miss Robbie Barnard and was crowded all day with the feminine portion of Earlington as was also the establishment of Mrs. M. A. Deshon. Several of the ladies who had visited the millinery store of Madisonville the day before claim Earlington has them skinned in the hat line this season in both a variety of styles and prices.

LOSE ONLY 20 IN EVERY 1,000 WOUNDED, SAYS DR. CARREL

French Methods of Caring for the Wounded Cannot be Surpassed

Paris—Dr. Alexis Carrel of the Rockefeller Institute in New York, who has been placed in charge of all military hospitals at Lyons, declares that he believes the French methods of caring for the wounded can not be surpassed.

"The only dangerous wounds with which we have to contend," he said, "are those caused by German siege artillery. Others generally heal without difficulty. We have lost only 20 out of 1,000 wounded at Lyons."

"Wets" Sweep My Old Kentucky Home

In Christian, Daviess and McCracken Counties Voters Decide in Favor of Licensed Saloons.

"PROH" FORCES GREATLY SURPRISED

In three Kentucky counties—Christian, Daviess and McCracken—where option elections were held yesterday the "wets" scored in every instance over the "drys" by majorities ranging from 600 to 700 votes.

In Daviess the county outside the city of Owensboro went dry by 300 votes while in the city the "wets" had a majority of 952.

McCracken county, outside of the city, gave the "drys" a majority of 597 while the city of Paducah gave the "wets" a majority of 1,391.

In Christian county the "wets" majority was 585. The result was a surprise to the anti-saloon men who believe they would be able to cut down the vote of the liquor forces in the cities of Hopkinsville and Pembroke. Both of these cities went "wet," the latter by a close margin.

In Daviess county where victory had been expected by the "wets" the advocates of licensed saloons, following announcement of the vote, paraded the street headed by the Third Regiment Band. Cheering crowds greeted the marchers in the business district where the saloons are located but when the paraders traversed the residential thoroughfares they were hissed and jeered.

The "drys" in McCracken county announced as soon as the result was known that they would be ready three years hence to dispute the right of licensed saloons to do business in the county or the city of Paducah.

THE HOPKINS CIRCUIT COURT

Will Convene Monday—Docket Lighter Than Usual.

MANY DIVORCE CASES

The September term of the Hopkins Circuit Court will convene next Monday morning, with Judge Gordon on the bench, and with a docket is hardly so crowded as is usually the case for the September term. There is the usual large list of divorce cases, about twenty-five suits being on the docket.

Only one murder case is on the docket, that of "Bama" Johnson, who killed Isom Logan several weeks ago.

Miss Mabel Browning is on the sick list this week.

President Supports Railroads in Their Plea For Assistance

"Glad to Call Attention of the Country to Imperative Need
That Railroad Credit Be Sustained."

Washington. — President Wilson sent a letter to Frank Trumbull, chairman of the Chesapeake & Ohio and Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroads, as spokesman for the railroad presidents who called at the White House, promising the co-operation of the administration in whatever assistance is possible in the present railroad crises.

The president's letter to Frank Trumbull is as follows:

"Dear Mr. Trumbull:

"Since you read it to me yesterday I have read again the statement you made on behalf of the railroad presidents whom I had the pleasure of meeting and conferring with at my office. It is a lucid statement of plain truth. You asked me to call the attention of the country to the imperative need that railroad credit be sustained, and the railroads helped in every possible way, whether by private co-operative help or by the action, wherever feasible, of Governmental agencies and I am glad to do so, because I think the need very real. I cannot say that I entertain any deep anxiety about the matter, except, of course a general anxiety caused by the unprecedented situation of the money markets of the world; because the interest of the producer, the shipper, the merchant, the investor, the financier, and the whole public, has in the proper maintenance and complete efficiency of the railroads is too manifest. They are indispensable to our whole economic life, and railway securities are at the very heart of most investments, large and small, public and private, by individuals and by institutions. I am confident that there will be active and earnest co-operation in this matter, perhaps the one common interest of our whole industrial life. Undoubtedly, both men in and out of official position will appreciate what is involved, and will lend their aid wherever it is possible for them to lend it.

"But the emergency is, in fact, extraordinary, and where there is manifest common interest we ought all of us to speak out in its behalf, and I am glad to join with you in calling attention to it. This is the time for all to stand together in united effort to comprehend every interest and sustain it in every legitimate way.

"The laws must speak plainly and effectively against whatever is wrong or against the public interest, and these laws must be observed; for the rest and within the sphere of legitimate enterprise we must all stand as one to see justice done and all fair assistance rendered and rendered ungrudgingly.

Cordially and sincerely,
"WOODROW WILSON."

Sold Hogs by Telephone

A South Carolina farmer had a large number of hogs which were ready to kill. The weather was so warm that killing was out of the question.

He went to his telephone, called a dealer in Columbia over Long Distance and sold his hogs at a good price. He then called the local freight office and arranged for shipment.

The telephone is now a necessity on the farm. You can have one on your farm at small cost.

JOHN READING FOR CIRCUIT COURT CLERK

Popular Deputy Makes Formal Announcement For This Office—His Card.

TO DEMOCRACY OF HOPKINS CO.

Feeling that after fifteen years of continuous service, as deputy at a meager salary, in the Circuit Clerk's office of this county, I would, as an aspirant for the office, receive some consideration at your hands, I now announce myself as a candidate subject to your approval for the office of the clerk of the Hopkins Circuit Court, with the consciousness that during my long service as deputy I have tried at all times to do my whole duty towards the patrons of the office irrespective of party affiliations, race, color or creed. The office of Circuit Clerk, owing to its technical nature—having dealings almost exclusively with the legal profession—is one of the most difficult in the state to fill, requiring a knowledge of legal procedure to properly discharge its many and varied duties, and I take pardonable pride in the fact that I have in some measure assisted in bringing this office up to that high degree of efficiency that on last year, prompted the voluntary published statement from Assistant State Inspector Castle—at the completion of a year's tour of inspection—that the circuit clerk's office of this county was the best conducted of any he had found in the state. I have no great family name or ties of blood kinship in this county nor powerful political allies or factions to render me assistance in my race. I depend solely on my past record as a deputy and upon my qualifications and fitness to assume the duties of the office to which I aspire and having implicit confidence in your sense of fairness and honesty of purpose and a disposition to reward and promote merit, I submit this, my appeal, for your suffrage, believing you will do what you think is right and for the best interest of your county.

Respectfully,
JOHN READING.

Tobacco Growers, Look.

Considerable quantities of tobacco stems have long been exported to Germany and other parts of Europe where they are often used in the manufacture of low-grade smoking tobacco and as a source of nicotine. Should the demand of Europe for American Tobacco stems cease, these stems, which contain large quantities of plant food, especially potash, may be used to good advantage by the American grower of tobacco as fertilizer. Soil fertilized by these stems, secured from the cigar and tobacco factories and stemmeries, will produce leaf tobacco of better burning qualities and textures. Tobacco stems as fertilizer should be applied in smaller quantities than manure, because they contain larger quantities of the constituents which feed the plant, according to the Department Agriculture's tobacco specialists. Two tons per acre of "seed stems" (stems from cigar factories) or 2 1/2 tons of "Kentucky stems" (stems from the tobacco factories and stemmeries) are known to give good results in New England and, so far as available, these stems will undoubtedly furnish a very satisfactory source of potash, as well as other plant foods, in other tobacco sections.

Important to all Women

Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it.

Women's complaint often proves to be nothing else but kidney trouble or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased.

You may suffer a great deal with pain in back, bearing down feelings, headache and loss of ambition.

Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and may be despondent; it makes any one so.

But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions.

A good kidney medicine, possessing real healing and curative value should be a blessing to thousands of nervous over-worked women.

Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great Kidney, Liver and Bladder Remedy will do for them. Every reader of this paper, who has not already tried it, by enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., may receive sample size bottle by Parcel Post. You can purchase the regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottle at all drug stores.

5 Women Avoid Operations

For years we have been stating in the newspapers of the country that a great many women have escaped serious operations by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it is true.

We are permitted to publish in this announcement extracts from the letters of five women. All have been recently received unsolicited. Could any evidence be more convincing?

1. HODGDON, ME.—"I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached and I was so nervous I could not sleep, and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation, but I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman."—Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Hodgdon, Me.

2. CHARLOTTE, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor, and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health."—Mrs. ROSA SIMS, 16 Winona St., Charlotte, N. C.

3. HANOVER, PA.—"The doctor advised a severe operation, but my husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I experienced great relief in a short time. Now I feel like a new person and can do a hard day's work and not mind it."—Mrs. ADA WILT, 196 Stock St., Hanover, Pa.

4. DECATUR, ILL.—"I was sick in bed and three of the best physicians said I would have to be taken to the hospital for an operation as I had something growing in my left side. I refused to submit to the operation and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and it worked a miracle in my case, and I tell other women what it has done for me."—Mrs. LAURA A. GRISWOLD, 2300 Blk. East William Street, Decatur, Ill.

5. CLEVELAND, OHIO.—"I was very irregular and for several years my side pained me so that I expected to have to undergo an operation. Doctors said they knew of nothing that would help me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I became regular and free from pain. I am thankful for such a good medicine and will always give it the highest praise."—Mrs. C. H. GRIFFITH, 7305 Madison Av., Cleveland, O.

FOOD REMAINS CHEAP IN THE CITIES OF ENGLAND

GOVERNMENT REGULATION OF PRICES HAS PREVENTED BITTER ADVANCES

London (by mail) — Food is cheap in Great Britain and in some cases prices are actually below those ruling before war was declared. The Government is regulating the price of all essential eatables and every few days a list is published showing the maximum price which a retail store may charge. Sugar is perhaps the most expensive commodity at this time, the price fixed being approximately 8cts a pound as against 6cts before the war began. Fish is somewhat more expensive, too, on account of the restrictions in the North Sea where disasters to shipping due to mines has unnerved fishermen.

Fruit is rotting in the markets in the first place England enjoyed a bumper fruit crop, and owing to the high price of sugar housewives are unable to preserve their usual complement. A few pennies will buy a basket of first-class fruit in London.

Smoked fish is cheap. Great Britain smokes millions of herrings every year and tons of these fish are annually exported. These are now on the market in vast quantities.

Meat is little above normal quotations. Cereals are practically unchanged in price compared with those obtaining before the war commenced.

Restaurants have not advanced their prices.

Should a retail store charge above those allowed by the government figures, the stores are seized by the officials.

Dairy products are cheap and have not advanced in price. Nearly every day a boat load of eggs, butter and cheese arrives from Denmark.

WOODEN CARS

DISAPPEARING

The wooden passenger car is going rapidly out of commission. It is being superseded by the steel car, which is more lasting and which is a safer medium of travel.

Railway statistics show that only a little over 3% of the passenger cars built during the year 1913 were of wooden construction. All railroads must be equipped with steel postal cars by 1915, and in a few years the wooden coach will be seen on few, if any, roads. On Jan. 1, 1909, there were only 629 steel passenger cars in service. On Jan. 1, 1913, the number had increased to 7,271. On the same date 3,296 steel under-frame cars were in service as compared with 673 on Jan. 1, 1909.

The substitution of steel for wood in the construction of passenger coacher is very costly to railroads. Steel cars cost something like $13,000 a car. They last longer, however, and are less susceptible to injury. They also inspire confidence in the traveling public.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Sir Gilbert Parker, in Sun, says England will not be moved by any cry of peace now. "England is in this war to her last man and last penny to break the militarism, which is at present, and would be a perpetual danger to the world if it were allowed to dominate Europe. This war is a war for freedom. When it is ended, if fortune be with the allies, there will be a readjustment of Europe in the interest of the separate nationalities."

Ghost dispatch says chief topic in Brussels is reported visit of Kaiser, which coincides with rumor that one of Emperor's sons died recently in Belgian capital. It is known that a wounded officer of high rank was brought into a hospital with his face masked, and that all English and Belgian doctors and nurses had been ordered previously to leave the building. The officer subsequently died and his identity was never disclosed.

Spanish government has entered American market for immediate delivery of $10,000,000 ordnance and rifle making machinery, dredging machines, concrete mixers, conveying machines, excavators, locomotives and stone crushers. "Important public works" is given as purpose of order.

Berne reports orders for demobilization of the Swiss army, because of the desperate economic situation in Switzerland. Expense of mobilization has been $300,000 a day and all industry is at a standstill. Idemity will be asked for at the end of the war.

Sun says: "Rural France is a sacked and pillaged country. This year's crop will prove almost a total loss. Not one-twentieth of it had been put in stack when mobilization stopped harvest. Next year's cannot be planted."

Richard Harding Davis, in Tribune, says French invariably use Turcos and Senegalese to lead the charges. These blacks believe that to die killing a Christian sends them straight to heaven; and they fight fiercely.

Believing that private enterprise should exploit South America, Secretary Redfield opposes plan to send six American warships loaded with examples of American products to South American ports.

The "Gentleman Corporal"

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

They were going to make a ride to the foothills and back—Captain Cline and the colonel's daughter. That meant a gallop of thirty miles.

"Not an Indian has been seen this side of the range for four months," said the captain as he talked over the proposed ride with the colonel, "and the trip is perfectly safe. I will detail an escort from my own company, but it will be only for appearance sake."

"Yes, it will be safe, and May will enjoy the gallop," said the colonel, and no more was said about it.

At sunrise all were ready to set forth. As the girl stood on the veranda waiting for her horse six of the men of A troop came riding up under command of Corporal Haynes. They halted thirty feet away, and as she looked them over she gave a start of surprise, and a flush overspread her face. Next moment her cheeks went white, and she gasped as if choked for breath. The corporal's hand slowly lifted, and his head was uncovered for an instant, and Private Harkins whispered to Private O'Brien:

"And did you see that, Jim? By smoke, if our corporal and the colonel's daughter haven't met before then I don't know a jack rabbit from a long drink of whisky!"

"And the corporal isn't a bit easy in his mind," added the other.

It all took place in a minute, and then Captain Cline rode up, followed by the girl's horse.

The two riders went galloping away, followed at a distance of 100 yards by the escort. Now and then the pace was slackened down a bit to breathe the horses, but no halt was made until the Devil's basin was reached. The escort halted forty yards from the riders, and the men sat about on the rocks. Meanwhile Corporal Haynes climbed to the top of a great boulder and surveyed the country about with his keen eyes. It was three-quarters of an hour before he came down and said:

"Men, see to your arms and lie close. I'm going up to report to the captain."

"Did I call you?" he harshly asked as the corporal came to a halt and saluted.

"No, sir," was the reply, "but I thought it best to tell you I have made out Indians beyond the basin to the north."

"It's all nonsense."

"But there are Indians skulking about, sir," persisted the corporal.

"Go back to your men!" was the sulen reply.

When he had reached the troopers he quietly said:

"Men, I have been up to the captain to report that there is a band of at least fifty Indians skulking down this way from Red Bird pass. They have seen us, and they are after us. We've got good cover, and we can stand 'em off for the day."

"But when night comes?" asked one of the men, though without a tremor in his tones.

"Get quietly ready," was the reply.

Meanwhile there was an argument between the captain and the colonel's daughter. He sought to assure her that nothing had been seen and that there was not the slightest danger; but, to his annoyance, she persisted in believing that there must be good grounds for the corporal's report. This annoyance made him delay matters, and nearly half an hour had passed, and it was very much against the grain when he shouted for the soldier to approach and sneeringly added:

"Well, corporal, isn't it about time your Indians showed up?"

"We shall hear from them in ten minutes," was the reply, "but if we mounted now and rode fast we would find the way open," said the corporal, with downcast eyes.

"Back, you impudent vagabond!" thundered the captain with outstretched arms. "I'll break you for this the minute we get back!"

The corporal turned his gaze on the girl for a few fleeting seconds; then his head and shoulders dropped in a helpless way, and he saluted his officer and retired.

Bang, bang, bang, went the carbines of the troopers, and the corporal came running up the hill to seize and drag the officer under shelter and to say to the girl:

"You must crouch down here and remain quiet. They can't get at you till they have killed the last one of us!"

By and by she missed the reports of the carbines, and the sound of footsteps echoed in her ears.

"Come!" said the corporal as he lifted her up.

"Oh, Robert, and have you beaten them off?" she exclaimed.

"No. My men are all dead, and the Indians will rush us in a minute."

"And we—we—"

He put his arms around her waist and assisted her to the rock, on which were the remains of her breakfast.

The steaming, heaving, mysterious lake was thirty feet beneath them.

"Better this than that!" he said as he pointed from the lake to a score of Indians advancing.

"Yes, better this!" she murmured as she took fast hold of him and put up her face to be kissed, and the savages stopped in their advance and shrieked and screamed their disappointment. By and by they advanced and looked down into the lake, but it had no story to tell.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Poisoning Cases.

Send for a physician at once. While waiting for his arrival give the patient an emetic—the nearest thing at hand to produce vomiting. One glass after another of plain water (lukewarm is best) until six or seven have been taken will always cause vomiting. While the patient is drinking water prepare albumen—the whites of four eggs to a quart of warm water, stirred well through the water. This solution is a chemical antidote to many poisons. Two spoonfuls of mustard in a coffee cup or a tumblerful of warm water makes an excellent emetic. Act rapidly and quickly and you may save a life by so doing.

PITCHING THE SPITBALL.

Collins Says There Is Only One Real Master, Ed Walsh.

In the American Magazine Eddie Collins of the Philadelphia Athletics writes about "Pitchers I Have Faced." Following is a part of what he has to say about Eddie Walsh, whom he regards as the best spitball pitcher:

"Walsh is the only real master of the spitball I know of. He was the first absolutely to perfect and control it. Most spitball pitchers are wild, and they have trouble especially to make their spitter a strike and usually have to resort to the fast one, but not Walsh. Many times I have seen him give a batter three balls and no strikes, and then three spitters would go swishing across the plate knee high, and the batter would sit down. Walsh invariably aims his spitter at one spot on a batter—namely, between the waist and the knees. I have never seen a good spitter that broke above the waist."

"Walsh was not a pitcher I dreaded to hit against, because it was never a battle of wits. You always knew what to look for—the spitter. It was sure to be in the same place—waist to shoe tops—and it was not like the spitters of some pitchers, at your head one minute and at your feet the next. In spite of this it was mighty hard to hit safely. Although there was almost a foot break on Walsh's spitball, Sullivan, who always caught him, said he could do it sitting in a rocking chair, his control was so perfect."

GOLD BRICK BUILDINGS.

Skyscrapers, New York Finds, Are Not a Paying Proposition.

In New York's skyscraper belt, where the buildings run from one to fifty-five floors, their average height is under six stories and a half. Only half a dozen skyscrapers in all the city may fairly be called beautiful, though a larger number are admirable feats of engineering.

All the more noteworthy, then, is the calculation of the secretary of New York's height of buildings commission that, allowing for depreciation, the skyscraper's investment return is but 2½ per cent. Nor does this class of edifice profit the community more than the individual. The cost in light and air is supplemented by the fact that skyscrapers burst sewers with their outflow and force the city to install a high pressure system for fire fighting.

One often hears arguments against the construction of high buildings based upon aesthetics. The most appealing argument is likely to prove that of dollars and cents. Unless as an advertising proposition (which need not greatly concern us) skyscrapers don't pay. New York has found this out rather expensively. The results of the experiment are respectfully referred to all those growing cities in which, as a matter of local pride, skyscraper construction is now so earnestly proposed.—New York Tribune.

London Full of Confidence Men.

London has never before harbored so many skilled exponents of the confidence trick in all its guises than at the present time. Indeed, the invasion of foreign confidence tricksters alone has become so serious that the Scotland Yard detectives stationed in the west end are organizing a new and drastic campaign against the fraternity. An Englishman and an Irishman working together in partnership under various aliases still hold the record as the most consistently successful tricksters in London, and despite all the efforts of the police they have been making incomes believed to run into several thousands of pounds.—London Express.

Where O'Connell Fought.

Arrangements have recently been completed by which the Earl of Clonmell has disposed of his Irish estates, the transference of property including the residence of Bishops Court, traditionally the birthplace of fox hunting in Ireland, together with the extensive stud farm there, and the historic Hill of Oughterard, with its ancient and picturesque round tower. It was on this hill that the famous duel between Daniel O'Connell and D'Esterre was fought, in which O'Connell shot D'Esterre.

Smokeless Powder Visible.

An important discovery has been made by the bureau of ordnance of the navy department as a result of a series of experiments and investigations which have been conducted by order of Rear Admiral Strauss. A certain color of glass has been found to serve the purpose of rendering visible the smoke from the "smokeless" powder discharge of a rifle.—Army and Navy Register.

WARS COMPARED

Claims Losses in Civil War Were Greater Than Battles in Present One.

Boston—Col. T. L. Livermore, just returned from Europe, says: "At Antietam, I could have walked a mile stepping on corpses at every foot. Two long lines stood blazing at each other as fast as they could fire, within fifty yards. Losses in the Civil War in great battles averaged 20% of those engaged in killed wounded and missing."

"After first four days of fighting in Belgium, Gen. French reported 6,000 killed, wounded and missing, or about 6% of the men engaged."
"At Amiens, August 27, I saw 70 British wounded, all shot in arms or legs, yet with one exception able to get around without assistance. With weapons used in the Civil War, men similarly wounded would have been incapacitated several days or weeks. Modern weapons do not seem to have anything like as serious effect. On no occasion did Germans get within 300 yards."
